This new and suddenly matured trouble is easily explained. The interests of India and of Lancashire have been brought into sharp conflict by the Governbrought into sharp conflict by the Government of India's decision to increase the import duty on cotton goods by 4 per cent. -from 31 to 7 per cent. Lancashire protests that this decision is doubly wicked and indefensible. It will produce (as is alleged) a widespread dislocation of industry in the Midlands, and it revives in a most violent form, during the war, the bitter controversy of Free Trade versus Protection. The Government, however, stands firm, and a representative deputation of masters and workers in the Lancashire industry has received no sort of satisfaction from either the Secretary of State for India or the Prime Minister. The deputation's language was almost threatening, but Mr. Austen Chamberlain answered in terms of uncompromising vigour, which were in refreshing contrast with the timidities and vacillations of Army-is united in passionate opposition Ministers under the old regime. He to the bureaucracy and the "dark forces" pointed out that the increased import behind it. duty is strictly a war measure, and is not inspired by any desire to introduce Protection by a side-wind. The party is now "in active opposition" to the Government, and it is just possible—though not, we think, probable—that its seventy votes might turn the scale towards victory or defeat on Mr. Chamberlain's motion. To-day, however, it will be on the horns of a rather cruel dilemma. If it votes against the Government, it will be voting against its own declared principles. If it votes for the Government, or does not vote at all, what will its fierce critics in Ireland think of its neglect of a peculiarly favourable opportunity for "active opposition." The interim report of Lord Balfour's Committee on Imperial Trade was published three weeks ago. It recommended Imperial Preference, and a memorandum signed by Mr. Hazleton, Mr. demanded special consideration for the case of Ireland—demanded "the same fiscal liberty for Ireland" which is at present enjoyed by the self-governing Dominions." According to the latest news the Government has suspended the sittings of the Duma and the Council of the Empire. The immediate occasion, though not the root cause, of this critical state of affairs appears to be an aggravation in the scarcity of Petrograd's food supply, due to the blocking of the railways by snow-storms. The adoption of this proposal would place both import and Excise duties at 7½ per cent.

There was this evening a less confident tone about the representatives of the cotten trade than yesterday. They recognised that they are not likely to carry their point in to-morrow's debate. It is understood that Mr. Asquith is not favourable to any interference with the discretion of the Government in this matter, and many of the older Liberals who are not already determined to support the Government will take their cue from him. The first duty of labour to-day was to produce food. There were hundreds of thousands of vast grazing ranches in Ireland—(Nationalist cheers)—and there were thousands of men living on non-becomeine holdings, cking out an existence on five or six acres of land. He advocated that these men, through the Estates Commissioners or the Congested Districts Board, should be given an additional 30 or 40 acres, so that these grazing ranches might be broken up and fist tributed amogast the people. If they did that, not only would they secure the skilled labour, which otherwise would not be obtainable. They had the land, the farmers, and the skilled agriculturists in Ireland, and they only needed to utilise them, instead of introducing this measure, which mobody believed in, which had been a gross failure in England, and would prove a greater failure still. He concluded by asking the Chief Secretary how the scheme was going to be carried out in Ireland; what was it to be constituted, Now that the bill was to be applied to Ireland, ness to Ireland as well as to the Empire.

THE SUMMER TIME ACT.
Letter from Lord De Freyns.
TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES,
Sir.—Agricultural labourers are only human, and they go by the clock the same as the business men. We are growing food for the business man to live by, but, if God does not give us weather, we cannot do so. No man can change the rising of the sun, and all farmers in Ireland know what heavy dews we have at night. I know that last year it was not off the ground before II a.m., and this year, if we are given Summer Time, in addition to the twenty-five minutes which we have already advanced, it will be II.30, so that no work could be done before the men's dinner hour, which is usually IZ o'clock. If our patriotic business men wish to have an hour's more daylight, they could show their keenness by getting up as hour earlier, but I am afraid that they have not the moral courage to do so; for, if they had, there would be no more talk about Summer Time at all.

As we farmers are all doing off intmost to feed the Army and Navy, so gallantly fighting for us, we should be allowed more say in the matter as to whether Summer Time at all.

RELIGION IN ENGLISH SCHOOLS.

YO THE EDITOR OF THE HASH TYMES.

Sig.—Your well-known aim to make the Irish Times scrapplously fair to all parties and creeds emboldens me to point out that the scarcely accurate to say, as you do in today is scarcely accurate to say, as you do in today is scarcely accurate to say, as you do in today in all but a few of the English primary schools in of the most perfunctory kind." The part which includes most of the active young the primary schools in the Church of England bold that definite religious instruction in the faith of the Church is the sole guarantee of morality. There are few "Council schools"—i.e. scalar—where the Church has not a hold from which no Act, of Parliament can dislodge it. The ranks of Council teachers include men and women of real intellectual power and solid moral worth. Comparisons are odious, but your Irish national schools would fare badly in any dutailed analysis.

You make no mention of the definitely "Church schools," where the management is in the hands of the Church of England, and where definite religious instruction goes hand in hand with valuable scular training. We are happily spared anything corresponding to your system of Intermediate education, and are content if our best lads can pursue the noun at Oxford or Cambridge, and leave the adjective to others. In view of the concluding paragraph, of your leader, it is worthy of note inta some of the keenest admirers of the English system—whence we find the vast majority of our content is England, who for certain are well aware of the Irish attempt at a solution of this problem. Fortwarely, a priest of the Church of England and an allow and the concluding paragraph of your leader, it is worthy of note into some of the keenest admirers of the English system—whence we find the vast majority of our concluding paragraph, of your leader, it is worthy of note in the subject of the Irish attempt as a solution of this problem. Fortwarely is present the concluding paragraph of your lead

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The Rev. Arthur E. Gok in his letter published in your issue of the 10th inst. has undoubtedly proved that reform is required in the Church of Ireiand. He has shown conclusively that the reform necessary is not reorganisation "in the administrative headquarters of the Church," but rather in a system which allows him to write to the Press complaining of extravagance in administering inatters about which he must be almost totally ignorant. I have before me:—1, The Report of the Representative Body for 1915; 2, The Journal or the General Synod, 1916; 3, The Irish Church Directory, 1915. With the help of these books I propose to show the following fallacy of Mr. tick's arguments.

On pages 46 and 47 of the Representative Body Report, 1915, I find that the income was nearly £485,000, and not £527,000. The cost of administering this sum is almost £11,700, or £2 4s. per cent. Surely this is ubsprecedentedly small. A prominent member of the Government states that, if a war association or fund raised for war charity is administered at a cost of 54d, in the £, it will do well. This is CHURCH OF IRELAND REFORM.

THE BAND.

Pipes were used for war music in Ireland long before they were adopted as the national music of the Scots, who recognise their unique value.

The pipes cheer up the men on the march and soothe them in bivouac as no other music does.

The pipes often have proved themselves to be a moral factor of the greatest importance in critical and desperate moments of battle. History furnishes many such examples.

The pipes are characteristic of the hardy, vigorous, brainy, pushful Scots character.

Oatmeal was used in Ireland prior to its adoption as a national dish by the Scots. They are living examples of its unique food value.

WHITE'S WAFER OATMEAL gives vigour and stamina in a higher ratio than any other kind of food. It brings the solace of dietetic satisfaction.

WHITE'S WAFER OATMEAL has proved itself a moral and economic factor of the greatest importance in these war times-high personal efficiency with monetary economy.

WHITE'S WAFER OATMEAL is rich in the elements which constitute brain, bone, and energy.

FRENCH BONDS RISE.

In the Foreign market conditions were rather irregular, but there was not much business to move quotations. French Fives showed to advantage among Allied Bonds, and, though finishing under the best, marked a net gain of ½ at 79½. Chinese Securities benefited from categorical statements that the Chinese Government had decided to throw in its lot with the Entente. South Americans were irregular. Braxilians were on the firm side. The Funding Fives touched 76, but closed at 75½.

HOME RAILS IMPROVE.

There was a fair number of net gains among Home Railway quotations on the session, but, apart from one or two of the Heavies, business remained within a narrow compass. There were numerous other advances averaging 4. Passenger Stocks, despite sluggishness, were more disposed to share in the forward movement.

AMERICANS HIGHER.

Americans were often higher on parity, and, while local operations were negligible, the general tone of the market was entifactory, helped by the news from Washington. Steele exceptionally were heavy, and finally no better than 115.

Canadian Pacifics again moved quietly around 168. Grand Trunks were steady, and the Guaranteed Fours picked up another $\frac{1}{2}$ at 157. Mexican Railway Prefs., after being higher, finished unchanged. Argentine Rails recovered a forence on set-back, and closed steadily, though forecasts regarding tomorow's traffics were not confident. San Pauloe, in the Brazilian group, rose a point to 166½. United of Havana at 76 were also 1 up.
